From our Clients

“What I really liked about the CRCFL volunteers is that they were never pushy -- they were friendly, sometimes just a smile or a "hello" or a comment about the weather. But they never came up to me and started talking about CRCFL. It's really a fine line to walk... I mean, on one hand, you want to help people who need the help, and you want people to know about all the services, but on the other hand... they have to be ready to hear it. I think if I had been approached by a volunteer in the very beginning -- I can tell you -- I wasn't ready to hear it. It may have even delayed my reaching out for support. Instead, I knew that when I finally was ready for some support -- they were there.”

“I can't say enough good things about the CRCFL volunteers and staff. During the time when I was having chemo, they came to visit me during my treatments at the infusion center. They would just pop by and chat with my husband and me if I was up for it. That was such a lovely thing and so comfortable, as well as comforting. The talk often centered on non-illness related topics so it took your mind off what was going on in your body at the time. Like an old friend stopping by to see how you were doing. Of course, they made stops to all of the patients there, not just me, and if you happened to overhear the conversations, you knew that they had an amazing bond with all the patients and such respect for us and empathy for what we were going through.”

“All of the CRCFL folks were very helpful and supportive, but not in your face. They just showed immense caring and kindness and had a real rapport with the patients.”

You walk in the door/call/text and they're always available. Can't understand how they can always be available! They need a social worker to help to ease their load - can't imagine how they are able to do all that they do.

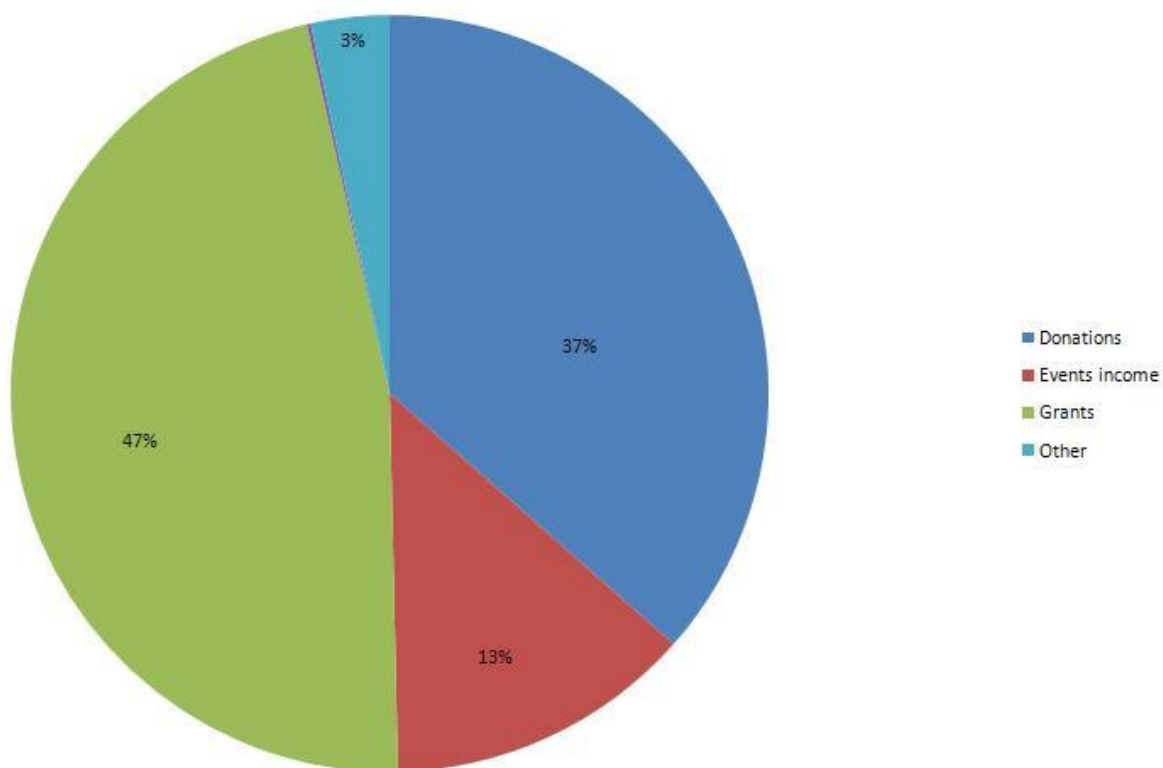

“CRCFL has been great for me - has helped me out with bills and gas, don't know what I'd do without CRC. Just a wonderful place. They explain everything to you. I went to the retreat last year and got to meet with others going through the same thing - absolutely wonderful. Kerry's good at giving a hug - she knows just when you need one.”
