The Cancer Resource Center of the Finger Lakes

...because no one should face cancer alone

No one is prepared to hear the words, “You have cancer.” It’s like entering a world where you don’t understand the language or even know which questions to ask.

Everyone feels lost at first.

This guide is designed to help you identify potential resources. It provides the answers to the questions we are asked about most often here at the Cancer Resource Center.

The Cancer Resource Center of the Finger Lakes is a local non-profit organization serving individuals in and around Tompkins County who have been affected by cancer. We are not affiliated with, nor do we receive funding from, the American Cancer Society.

We recognize that every person and every cancer is different, so we begin by listening. Many people come to us when they are first diagnosed. Others come because they are concerned about a loved one with cancer. We answer questions, suggest resources, and share what we’ve learned from others who have come through our doors.

Our programs include one-on-one assistance, support groups, financial advocacy, financial assistance, transportation assistance, a boutique, and wellness programs. We are happy to track down additional resources for you, just contact us with your question

Advice for People Newly Diagnosed with Cancer

by Bob Riter

The first few days following a cancer diagnosis are like riding on top of a speeding train. You're hanging on for dear life and can't quite see what's ahead. Although every situation is somewhat different, this is what I generally suggest:

- Focus on one step at a time. If you are having a biopsy next week, focus on that biopsy and do not let your mind wander to what might happen next.
- Take someone with you to medical appointments. They can take notes and help you remember what was said.
- Do not hesitate to ask your doctor to repeat something. Do not hesitate to get a second opinion if you think it might be helpful. Your doctor won't mind. (If your doctor does mind, you should get another doctor).
- Family members, friends, and complete strangers will give you advice. Be wary when they say, "You should do..." Though well-intentioned, they may not know what is best for you.
- You control who to tell about your cancer diagnosis and when to tell them.
- Remember that cancer treatments change rapidly. What you hear from people who were treated in the past is out of date.
- Understand that cancer is not a single disease. Lung cancer and breast cancer are very different diseases. There are even 14 different types of breast cancer. What you hear about cancer in other people probably does not apply to your cancer.
- Survival statistics are averages. They can be helpful if you want a general idea of the prognosis for people with your disease, but they can't predict what will happen to you as an individual.
- A new cancer diagnosis is rarely a medical emergency. You generally have several days or even weeks to explore your options. Some situations do require immediate attention, ask your doctor how long it is safe to wait before beginning treatment.
- Do not begin a radical "cancer curing" diet or major lifestyle changes before or during treatment. Just eat sensibly and nutritiously, exercise moderately, and get plenty of rest. You can make whatever lifestyle and diet changes you want after treatment is over.
- Nearly everyone undergoing cancer treatment experiences fatigue. It is probably the most common and least publicized side effect. Conserve your energy for activities that are most important to you.

- Nothing goes in a straight line. You will feel better one day; then you will feel worse; then you will feel better. Do not be discouraged by the down days.
- Being diagnosed with cancer is life-changing for many and life-disruptive for nearly everyone. It is difficult at first, but once the decisions are made and treatment begins, most people gradually regain their rhythms. Cancer isn't fun, but treatment often ends up being more manageable than people expect. It's a club that no one wants to join, but trust me, you're in good company.

Pain Control

Cancer pain should be addressed quickly and aggressively. The treating physician is the first contact, but other resources are available:

Palliative Care is a program of Hospicare and Palliative Care Services, located in Tompkins and Cortland Counties. Palliative care specializes in relieving the symptoms and stress of serious illness. Symptoms may be physical, emotional, or spiritual. The goal is to improve quality of life for you and your family. Palliative care may be appropriate at any point in an illness, from diagnosis on, and it can be provided at the same time as treatment that is meant to cure you.

Working in partnership with your primary doctor, the palliative care team can provide:

- recommendations for treatment of pain and other symptoms
- clear communication between you and your family
- help in navigating the healthcare system
- opportunities for extended discussions about goals and options
- practical information about community resources
- emotional and spiritual support for you and your family

Palliative care consultations can be done in your own home, in an assisted living facility, nursing home, or hospital. Contact them for more information at 607-272-0212 or at www.hospicare.org.

End of Life Care

Hospice is a philosophy of care for the dying and their families that affirms life, but does not deny death. Support and care are provided in the last phase of a person's illness so that they may live as comfortably and autonomously as possible.

Hospicare and Palliative Care Services provides hospice care wherever the patient lives: at home, in skilled nursing facilities, adult homes, or at Cayuga Medical Center. Hospicare also has a residence in Ithaca for people whose caregiver is no longer able to care for them or for people living alone without adequate care and support.

Hospice is covered by Medicare, Medicaid, and most private insurance plans. In addition, Hospicare and Palliative Care Services offers another program, Personal Attention to Health (PATH) that assists individuals in navigating the medical, emotional, spiritual and logistical challenges associated with any serious illness, including cancer.

Anyone can contact Hospicare for more information or to request an assessment. A doctor's referral or authorization may be required for some services. Contact them for more information at 607-272-0212 or at www.hospicare.org.

Cancer Support for All Ages

Children:

In the local area, children with cancer are most often treated outside of Cortland County. However, there are some local programs that can assist children and families.

Camp Good Days (www.campgooddays.org) provides residential camping programs and year-round recreational activities for children with cancer, children with a parent or sibling with cancer, and children who have lost a parent or sibling to cancer.

Cancer Resource Center of the Finger Lakes (www.crcfl.net) provides support to parents in talking with their child about cancer and connects them with additional resources in the community. Our program, CRC Cares About Kids, now has the ability to help families in need pay for counseling sessions for their children. Insurance co-pays can also be covered.

Young Adults:

Cancer can be especially difficult for young adults because they are just establishing themselves in their relationships and their careers.

Cancer Resource Center of the Finger Lakes offers a support group for young adults (see page 5 for meeting information).

Stupid Cancer (www.stupidcancer.org) is an organization whose mission is to empower, support, and improve health outcomes for the young adult cancer community. Their website provides age-appropriate resources and social networking for young adults with cancer.

Hope for Young Adults with Cancer (<http://www.hope4yawc.org/>) is an organization that provides financial support to young adults battling cancer as well as those who have been in remission for up to 5 years after their treatment. This organization has an application process for financial assistance for the necessities of everyday life.

The Young Survival Coalition (www.youngsurvival.org) is an international organization focusing on the critical issues women ages 40 and under who are diagnosed with breast cancer.

Older Adults:

Cancer becomes more common as people get older. When an older person undergoes cancer treatment, the support s/he needs may relate as much to aging as to the cancer itself. There are local agencies that can provide supports to older adults.

Cortland County Office for the Aging (607-753-5060) is an excellent resource for assistance with aging-related issues such as housing, home care, health insurance, caregiver services, and more. <https://www.cortland-co.org/434/Area-Agency-on-Aging>
